Enroute With President Harding—The first look of President Harding's western travel has demonstrated one thing above all others—he is personally popular and the people in the crowds show real affection for him.

Politically—well, that's another matter. Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming were carried by the democrats in the elections last fall, for governor in the first two states and for United States senator in the third. Has the situation changed much since then? Many good republicans who wish Mr. Harding the best of political fortune think not and shake their heads ominously.

The basic fact today is agrarian discontent. The farmer is still angry. The politicians tried very much the speech Mr. Harding made at Hutchinson and thought it would make a deep impression on the farmer mind. But of more lasting effect will be the published stories of the little conversation between the president and a "clerk" farmer who explained in detail how wheat was selling around 85 cents a bushel when it cost more than $1 to produce it. All he can do more than one sage of the agricultural west expressed it there isn't much hope for the future when the farmer is simply given more credits, indeed more opportunity to go into

FRENCH RAISE PENALTY FOR SABOTAGE

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Coblenz—The French Friday extended their occupation in the Mayence bridgehead to Langen on the Darmstadt-Frankfort railroad line, eight miles south of Frankfort, and Eschborn, on the Frankfort-Kronberg line, seven and one-half miles northwest of Frankfort. The extension is a penalty for recent sabotage on the railroads.

PLAYGROUNDS OPEN SEASON

Perfect weather for opening of the city playgrounds Friday augured well for a successful season, and turn-out of children and citizens was good. Webster was the first grounds having its opening, the band playing there at 1:30 p.m. From there it was to go to the Douglas, Washington, Adams and Jefferson at half hour intervals. More than 500 pieces turned out.

KILLS WIFE AND HIMSELF

Minneapolis—Charles O. Johnson, 43, Oskaloosh, Minn., shot and killed his wife, 38, early Friday morning and then committed suicide at the home of Charles C. Miller, where they were visiting. The act was said to have been caused by depression following the death of a 2 year old son from scarlet fever last Christmas. The Johnsons are survived by a six year old daughter.

SHIPS CAN'T KEEP BEER

New York—Beer is not medicine, according to the treasury department, at least it isn't medicine for foreign vessels and cannot be carried as part of their medicine supplies. Dr. E. K. Sprague, senior medical officer of the United States public health service, has been instructed from Washington.

ACCIDENT VICTIM CONFINED TO BED

The condition of Mrs. Beth Brown, 15 North High street, injured in an automobile collision Wednesday afternoon on the Beloit road, was reported Friday as still serious. Mrs. Brown was badly bruised and cut and will be confined to her home for some time.

ATTORNEYS ENJOY FINE BANQUET AS CONVENTION ENDS

Not eclipsed by meetings of the past three days, the Wisconsin bar association held a banquet Thursday night at the Janesville high school as the closing function of the annual convention which maintained its success, the high standard of pleasure for those in attendance, that has characterized the 1923 meeting here.

A hundred members, their wives and guests attended the banquet, enjoyed a splendid dinner, good music and the sparkling wit and humor of some of the best after dinner speakers.

Madison—Legislative approval for an appropriation of $200,000 to purchase for the state the 8,000 acre Northern Lakes park in Vilas and Price counties, appeared certain Friday when the assembly voted to concur in the Billerud bill.

Strong Address by Hirst
Saves Day for County's Road Building Program

Just when there was a move during the closing hours of the special session of the Rock county board on Thursday afternoon to consider a resolution to stop building concrete roads—A. R. Hirst, state highway engineer, appeared on the scene. Hirst appeared like the stage hero, "just in the nick of time," and saved the day—and the roads.

The county supervisors were treated to a rare lecture on roads and the Wisconsin highway program for first is an emphatic speaker who doesn't talk unless he is not afraid to express. Supervisor E. D. McGowan, Janesville, took issue with the state engineer on several points, and before the board adjourned the supervisor heard expressions about the legislature, the governor and how the state proposes to allot the so-called "state aid" and the federal road money.

Hirst's Talk Refreshing.

Hirst didn't doubt but that the highway commission is "boss" of the state and federal road projects with the exception of one portion of the state aid which the county can use to pay interest or principle on the bonds already issued for road purposes.

It was somewhat of a relief to hear something besides are old arguments about route 20 and Friday morning the county highway committee considered bids for starting—at last—the first five miles west of Janesville.

WISCONSIN SENATE
AGAIN BALKS AT OFFICIAL INQUIRY

PROPOSAL FOR ALLEGED VICE PROBE IS DOWNED.

MORAN OPPOSED

Garey Also Votes Against Investigation; Vets Are on Negative Side.

By ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Madison—For the second time Wisconsin's senate refused to investigate charges of malfeasance in office on the part of state officials when, late Thursday, it killed, 17 to 16, a resolution introduced by the committee on legislative procedure to provide for an inquiry committee. Previously it had rejected, 18 to 12, a resolution introduced by Senator H. J. Severson for similar purpose.

Just one vote stood in the way of an investigation into what the resolution said were "many charges of malfeasance in office of state officials, both elective and appointive, and heads of certain departments of state government."

Solicitous for Governor

Senator Barney Moran, who figured in the first request for a senate investigation, took the attitude that the proposed inquiry was "a gigantic political humbug" brought here to discredit Governor Blaine, poor boy.

He voted against the resolution, noting that "so far as I am concerned as a member of this senate, they could investigate me from now till William Jennings Bryan becomes president."

The principal attack was made on the resolution by Senator A. E. Garey, Edgerton, an administration leader who declared that there wasn't enough tangible charge upon which to base an investigation. He asked that the senate resolve itself into a committee of the whole to permit presentation of charges and their consideration.

Socialists Vote "Yes"

Socialist members supported the proposed investigation after Senator William Quirk had declared that the charges included in the resolution were serious. If not borne out by an inquiry he said that he would use his influence to have those responsible for the quiet put in jail.

Senator J. J. O'Brien, who favored the original resolution, said that Senator Quirk had taken the proper attitude. It is easy to see why those other senators oppose this investigation from the character of their arguments, the senator asserted.

Senator Eurchard asserted that the Anti-Saloon league was back of the resolution and after attacking that organization, opposed the inquiry.

OPEN POOL BOOKS FOR NEW MEMBERS

Organization meetings are being held in different tobacco growing districts of Wisconsin by the Northern Wisconsin Co-operative Tobacco pool.

Meetings were held in Edgerton and Stoughton Thursday afternoon and evening and the Janesville meeting will be held Friday night. A meeting will also be held in Oconomowoc Friday evening and in Potosi Saturday, June 29.

Naming of an advisory committee to the pool is expected following the series of state meetings. Complaints regarding the handling of the last crop by the pool will be heard.

The main purpose of the meetings however, is to start a campaign for more members.

Additional warehouses have been leased by the pool. Warehouses have been acquired by the pool on the five year plan at Viroqua and Soldiers Grove. It is also reported that another warehouse may be taken over in Edgerton.

WISCONSIN TOBACCO MARKET

Edgerton.—The Wisconsin Tobacco Reporter Friday says:

"The rain of Monday night broke the heat of the hottest and most trying days of weather in recent experience during the transvaal season in this state. For about eight days previous to the storm the mercury registered 100 degrees, and during the height of the transvaal it rendered the work almost impossible.

After the rain the work was continued in fair shape, but in not far cases whole fields are being reset with more or less resetting in nearly all instances. The market applied particularly to the southern section."

"The northern section has been favored with more moisture and conditions reported as very good. While the roads are still bad, the market was broken by the rain of Monday, the rainfall was light and more moisture is needed at this time. It is said the tobacco is in better condition on the ground than this week will see practically the finish of putting the 1923 crop in the field."

William Lyle, Racine, spoke on agricultural development work and the necessity of Farm Bureau co-operation.

During the morning there was a ball game between Brownstown and Albion. Concerts were given by the Brownstown band.

Pretty Parade of Decorated Carts Planned for 4th

The contestants will parade from Franklin to Main streets following the annual Fourth of July fireworks parade.

Liberals cash prizes will be given to the winners and the thousands who remember the children's parade at the festival last fall will have with delight the opportunity of again witnessing such a pretty spectacle.

PRESIDENT FACES IS PROBLEM OF REAL HELP FOR FARMER

The Hutchinson speech was a recital of what had been done by the administration to furnish credits.

What the farmers want to know is how they can keep from borrowing money to pay their losses. And when the president answers that question, or gets all solved, he will have done more to advance his political fortunes than anything else he could possibly do.

Credit for Farmers

Mr. Harding knows that the crux of the matter because he said the other day: "Many people have been instrumental in the creation of benefits which might follow the enactment of legislation to give the farmer a better system of credit." They have said the farmer needs better prices for his crops and livestock rather than easier ways to borrow money. That is true, but these friends do not seem to understand that prices of crops and livestock are directly influenced by credit facilities. I think we agree that what is needed is fair prices; and I very well know that the farmer wants to get out of debt rather than get further into debt. But it's my opinion that both these ends will be much more quickly accomplished through this new system of agricultural credit.

Unfortunately there is no way to prove in the next 16 months the merit of the president's conjecture. The farmers have been at a loss to understand how a federal government which could for three years guarantee a price of $2 bushel on wheat can be continuing like that now.

The crop is still far greater than the stabilized price of wheat, for while credits will enable the farmer to hold out for a certain length of time, and will protect him in time of drought, it will not remove the fact that the farmer today gets approximately one-third more than consumer pays for the products of the farm. The other two-thirds goes to the railroads and the distributors of constituents.

A Protest Vote

This is the farmer talk today—it helped turn several states upside down politically last autumn. The president has just scratched the surface of the fundamental problem. Probably until he came west he didn't know how serious it was, nor will the farmers be grateful for the credit system established by the federal government and the aid given them by the war finance corporation, this will not satisfy them. This protest comes from the republican leaders, conservatives, no, none. Of course, for a steady improvement in republican stock between now and the 1924 election, but who know that unless farm prices are higher the agricultural vote will be one of protest and will be registered in favor of the Fords, the Brookharts, the La Follettes, and similar exponents of agrarian socialism.

Had the president been able to promise a reduction in railroad freight rates, had he been able to present a comprehensive marketing scheme of national scope whereby the farmers could bargain collectively both in the domestic and foreign markets, there would be little enthusiasm for Mr. Harding's addresses in the farm regions. The tariff to which the president pointed with pride is looked upon as having been effective at a time when foreign products were flooding America, but the price of farm products has nevertheless steadily gone up and the farmer has had to pay dearly for his protection in the increased cost of goods he buys for use on the farm. The tariff alone isn't apt to keep the farmer in the ranks of regular republicanism because the acute situation which produced the tariff has passed and the farmer is looking for a word of hope for the future.

The writer is convinced that before the next political campaign is in full swing the administration will have recognized the necessity for something much more definite in the way of farmer aid than credits, and that the next session of congress will bring a round of decisions about cooperative marketing, lower freight rates and measures to guarantee or stabilize prices of farm products.

NEW PRESIDENT OF BAR IS VETERAN

Has Served Several Terms—Convention Hears League of Nations Advocate

Selection of W. A. Hayes, Milwaukee, as president of the Wisconsin Bar association, comes as recognition of his many years' service and interest in the association. The Janesville convention is the first in many years at which he has not been present. He is counsel for the Soo railroad company. His election came at the same time that he was reported to be in favor of the association giving power to act on whether the association should lend aid in getting funds to have the supreme court building at Belmont moved from its present site to the capitol park there, did not seem advisable. It has been discovered, Prof. Glaser said, that the only session he attended was not in the building, evidently intended for that August 1919 session, but in the legislative chamber, the capital and therefore the value of the building as a historic relic is diminished.

Isolation Ridiculous Says Stuart

There was a discussion as to past and future amendment to cut to 20 years the length of time when those in the association become life members. Action was postponed.

A League of Nations supporter and advocate, Prof. Graham Stuart, professor of political science at the University of Wisconsin, talked Thursday afternoon on the United States' new foreign policy. He discussed the Monroe doctrine and Washington's policy of isolation.

A policy of isolation seems almost ridiculous, Prof. Stuart said, when one considers the economic situation and the conditions abroad, about with changing times. Relations with other countries seem less dangerous now when there are many democracies than in the time of Washington.

Harding Toured to It

He showed how President Harding has been forced into a consideration of foreign policy several times, despite his desire to keep entirely away from it. Prof. Stuart said isolation is as far as the Harding administration is concerned is completely destroyed.

"President Harding says we must understand these foreign peoples and I agree with him," Prof. Stuart said. "We've got to study international affairs and the rights of other people and their diplomatic machinery to carry out our foreign policy."

Discussing reparations, Prof. Stuart said that France has said it will be satisfied with seven billions from Germany and is holding onto the Ruhr as security. It was more for security from fear of Germany that the position of the heart blood of Germany would be declared. France cannot afford another war but it feels safe as long as it is in control of the Ruhr.

Front Door Entrance

President Harding's latest proposal of self perpetuating world court which he recently advanced when he got a little bit worried by the opposition.

He has been told to postpone the bill until after the session of the legislature.

President Harding now suggests we throw overboard and start anew, the professor said.

There is a question whether the world court is a back door entrance into the League of Nations.

That I am not prepared to discuss but personally I'd rather see a front entrance.

He declared in closing that America must have a foreign policy, that the Monroe doctrine is practically obsolete and there is no question more completely settled. The open door policy is the only one remaining today which dates back to early days of this government and the United States can't maintain an open door policy without having relations with the world.

We revere them because of their great services to our country, but we love them for the homely things in their lives—the Lincoln who split rails and sold sugar in a country store; the Washington who was a surveyor and "roughed it" in the wilderness that was then the Colonies.

LEGISLATURE SETS 6 MONTHS RECORD OF NOTHING DONE

HALF YEAR OF FIGHTING
FRUITLESS TO WETS,
PROGRESSIVES.

FIVE BIG ISSUES Senate Balks Proposed Radical Changes; Prevents Guard Abolition.

MADISON — When the accomplishments of the fifty-sixth session of Wisconsin's legislature are recorded after adjournment they will be found to be few and of minor importance, compared to the achievements experienced when the houses convened six months ago, legislative bulletins is

The session convened faced with five major problems: taxation, highway legislation, prohibition enforcement, education and unemployment insurance. It is preparing now to adjourn without having effected enactment into law of any measures of importance relating to these subjects of proposed legislation.

Radical changes were expected from the legislature, both houses of which were controlled and organized at the outset by a La Follette Progressive Republican Socialist coalition. Besides the control by this group, was the expected majority of wets in both the senate and assembly.

Six Months of Fighting.

After six months of fighting, centered almost exclusively in the closely divided senate, the progressives and the wets admit that they have accomplished little—that the expected changes have not been forthcoming.

Senate action resulted in the killing off, after a rather of six general income tax bills. Factional divisions within the progressive ranks in the senate caused defeat of proposed revenue law changes, upper house members agree.

The senate and assembly did agree upon a highway tax to shift a larger share of the burden of maintaining roads from the general treasury to the automobile owner by passing a gasoline tax and a weight tax bill. Governor Blaine ended the hopes for this program, members say, by his reported veto of the gasoline tax proposal.

Defeat Liquor Legislation.

Failure of the legislature to submit to a recommendation by Governor Blaine and assembly stands in favor of modified enforcement of the Serson Prohibition enforcement law, resulted in defeat of the liquor legislation. The upper house killed the lower house move for repeal of the state enforcement measure, putting an end to the major wet move of the session.

By killing the Dahl bill for reorganization of the system of educational administration in the state, the assembly ended the attempt to consolidate boards and get up-to-date standards of instruction adopted. The state board of education, which acted as a research department in education, was abolished on the recommendation of the governor.

Unemployment insurance, labor's principal demand from the session, ended a bill asking for an interim committee to study the question. Paired with defeat, action on the major proposal was deferred for two years.

Signed 300 Bills.

While failing to approve the major problems which confronted the session, the legislature has passed and signed 300 bills. In addition, 24 resolutions memorializing Congress for action on a variety of subjects were adopted by the two houses.

Following are acts of the legislature that have become laws of statewide importance as a result of the session.

Two laws affecting labor provide for legalized peaceful picketing in labor disputes; increased construction by the board of control during periods of depression to provide work for unemployed; inclusion of hotel workers under women's hours of labor law; lowering of the number of hours when women in industry may work from 48 hours a day and 55 hours a week to nine hours a day and 50 hours a week, and restriction of the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

Dealing with taxes the legislature rejected the secret clause to the income tax bill. This was imposed by the tax commission prohibiting promiscuous use of income tax information.

Educational Matters.

In educational matters, the session abolished the state board of education, and it prohibited the use of historical names which define the founders of the state, besides increasing the size of the University of Wisconsin board of regents by two members to give the administration immediate control of that institution.

For agriculture the session so far has passed no law to prohibit the use of dairy names in advertising imitation dairy products; while a $1,000,000 appropriation for eradication of bovine tuberculosis is pending.

Both houses passed a gasoline tax and a weight tax bill to finance a highway program, but executive disposition is expected to kill the proposed gas law.

Game laws generally were revised.

Regulation of dance halls to suppress vice among young people was provided by the legislature, by its empowering counties to enact regulatory ordinances.

Home rule for counties was voted and approved by the governor.

Resolutions Galore.

Congress was memorialized to repeal the Esch-Cummins railroad law; to refuse to send American soldiers overseas; to take over coal mining and to do a number of other things important.

Criticism was directed by the legislature at the 450 University of Wisconsin faculty members who during the war signed a round robin denouncing the war attitude of Senator Robert M. La Follette. A further resolution was adopted by the house to censure Senator La Follette for his war record.

The attack directed at the national guard by the assembly was defeated in the senate, but only after a resolution in the guard appropriation from $600,000 annually to $265,000. An attempt to abolish the state's militia training at the University of Wisconsin was made optional rather than compulsory, by legislative action.

And Some Sell Drugs.

"Rub it on his trade in drugs a terrible thing."

"Dub—'Yes, and they're so bold about it! Why, there's a drug store on every other corner.'—New York Sun."

A Bare Mistake.

"What are you doing with my dollars? I want your hand, don't you?"—Said, "I thought it was hair tonic."—New York Sun.

Girl of 18 Dies

of Diphtheria

Miss Lucy Hayward, 18, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. Haywood, living in a farm southeast of Beloit, and sister of Miss O. M. Hayward, Janesville teacher, died 5 p.m. Thursday at a hospital in Eveleth, Minn., following 10 days' illness with diphtheria.

Miss Hayward made her home with a single sister while in Minnesota where she attended school. She had planned to return to Eveleth for the summer vacation but became ill. A stroke, causing a rapid increase of heart action, complicated the disease, making it impossible for the doctor to fight the original ailment.

Miss Olive Hayward was in Eveleth when her sister died, having been called to that city last Sunday.

O. E. Sweeney. Edgerton, was fined $1 and costs, or $3.40, for driving at night with insufficient lights.

"WILD BILL'S" NAME

James Butler Hickok, better known as "Wild Bill," the noted plains scout, peace officer and expert marksman, died during his first years upon the frontier, according to the "Shanghai Bill."

This sobriquet was given him by the Jim Line Gang Soil Mechanics of "Red Legs" which Jim, then eighteen and tall and slim, joined in 1856 at Leavenworth, Kansas.

But in December, 1860, at the stage station of Rock Creek, some 15 miles west of Topeka, Hickok was shot in the back by a member of the McCandless outfit.

The ten men battered in the door of Hickok's dug-out with a log and together rushed him where he waited at bar with a Mississippi Yager, two revolvers and two Bowie-knives.

He killed four as they crossed the threshold, killed two more in the doorway, and another before he could mount his horse. Of the ten men only three escaped from the scene, and one of them died from his injuries. Bill said:

"I just got wild and slashed about like a bear with death-wound, and I guess that is how I came to get away with them."

From that day on he was "Wild Bill." By Edwin L. Sabin, Adventure.

Hyena Hoax Had 'Em All Hopping Here in 1880

Back in the 1880's, when everybody knew who was who and all of everybody's past and future history, playing practical jokes was the great entertainment of the age. Everybody "got a kick" from a good practical joke, for it was not ten minutes before the story was all over town. Now one can travel only in a small circle before strangers make the point of the joke lost.

Reported Hyenas Escaped. It was just in the year 1880, according to a Janesville Gazette clipping, recently brought to the office by C. E. Wyller, a local resident who is now here after leaving for a cigar firm, Burr Robinson, had just bought another circus, from an auction in Louisville. He no more than had settled at home when somebody started a report downtown that the hyenas were loose. Now it turned out that Janesville people had had an encounter with hyenas some time before, in 1878, when some of Burr's hyenas, and did not wish to repeat it. At least here is the Gazette account of the occurrence:

"Nobody seemed to have the least desire to kill the hyenas. Dr. Whiting went across the bridge on a run, and stopped to look at the Blind Asylum, of which he is a trustee. The Doc said he was in a hurry to see a patient who was dying of age. Croft, the mayor, went up over the hill, towards the fair grounds looking for the city marshal, and the two fat editors of the Recorder, and Mr. and Mrs. Alice Marsh, editor, started down the stairs at once, and all three got up in the door, with Nolan in the middle. And King, the book store man, had to come along, and pull Nolan out with a cork-screw, while the fat rascals could go in and break the door. Nick Smith, of the Gazette, couldn't run, so he picked up some wire in front of a hardware store and held it up at arm's length, so that if the hyenas came along they would run. There was a telephone pole in the door of the bank, and when he heard the hyenas were loose he rushed into the safe and pulled the door shut. He said afterward he had been shooting for some buck-shot cartridges to kill the hyenas. Van Kirk ran across the bridge again, so he had been shot out of pursuit, and he never cared for hyenas anyway. He said there might be somebody down in his store who wanted to buy cheese. The postmaster, who was down behind the general delivery window, said Van had run that way last night, and he might have been shot.

Then came Rev. Henry Jordan of Milwaukee, and Rev. George H. Duffus in the door of the bank, and when he heard the hyenas were loose he rushed into the safe and pulled the door shut. He said afterward he had been shooting for some buck-shot cartridges to kill the hyenas. MAIL CARRIERS ASK HALF-HOLIDAY

City-Wide Referendum Planned on Proposal for Saturday Afternoons Off.

As one-half holiday a week is the rule in practically all trades, city mail carriers of Janesville have decided to submit the matter of their having Saturday afternoons off to a vote of the patrons on their routes. A coupon will be published in the Gazette starting Wednesday, and patrons are invited to clip it, fill it out and send it in either through the mail or by handing to the carrier while on his route.

The resolution passed at the meeting reads as follows:

"Whereas, a half holiday some time during the week is the rule in almost every trade, occupation and profession in the city, and the mail being heavy on Saturday afternoon, with many stores and business institutions closed,

"Whereas, in other cities the parsons of the post offices have expressed themselves favorably to the Saturday afternoon holiday for city letter carriers, now therefore be it Resolved by the city letter carriers of Janesville, That the patrons of the Janesville post office be requested to express themselves in favor or against such half holiday for the carriers, and that they send their vote to our postmaster through the mails or by carrier or otherwise, and that such expression or vote be sent promptly."

Wilson mail carriers recently conducted a similar referendum and the vote was overwhelmingly in favor of the proposal. Other cities are taking it up and endeavoring to secure federal O. K. to the plan by showing general sentiment favors it.

WANT some boom town dope that the press agents send out? Here's the way the p. a. at Shelby is shooting the ragged copy. It just has to get into the newspaper office ready to be expanded, cut, thrown in the wastepaper basket. "Shelby arena, located one-fourth mile west of Shelby. Near the spot where Harry Tracy, noted bandit made his last stand before being shot down. It is one mile east of the natural gas well in the Rockies where chief Joseph and his band of 1,500 Blackfoot Indians were massacred by General Miles and his troops in 1877. Gateway to Glacier National park, largest natural mountain park in the world. Twenty-nine miles south of the Canadian border (that's for wet consumption). In the center of what promises to be the richest oil district in world (hold your pocket book).

"ARENA seats 40,208; covers six acres; built in shape of octagon. One million one hundred thousand feet of lumber used in construction. Took three carloads of nails to put together. Has 16 entrances, 85 rows of seats, 1,500 boxes. During team five men worked day and night for a month to build it. Great Northern railway building three new depots, close to 40 miles of sidetracks, equal to city of 150,000 population. Installed 16 circuits in observation car with telegraph wires to handle million words from newspaper scribes.

"HALF MILLION dollars worth of buildings under construction in Shelby. Chamber of Commerce opens largest tourist camp in world, covering 50 acres and equipped with all modern conveniences. When Shelby had population of 700 a year ago, now it has 7,000. On July 4, it will be 40,000. How the little town of Shelby got the Dempsey-Gibbons fight reads like fiction. Promoters Loy J. Molony and Mike E. Collyard talked for it, flew for it, rode trains for it, worked the wires for it, but never got it. What happened so fast in Shelby it looks like a moving picture reel jazzed up on high speed." That's that.

CANNING FACTORY HAVING BIG YEAR

With a record of from 1,500 to 2,700 cases of peans canned daily, production for the season at the Bower City Canning company plant has increased nearly 50 per cent, Fred Beilharz, manager, said Thursday.

The high mark in production was reached Monday when 2,700 24-can cases of peans were packed. A daily average of 2,400 cases is being maintained.

More than 100 men are employed at the cannery and factory of the company and it is expected that work will be almost continuous throughout the summer. Packing of the late peas will start in the near future. With the completion of the pea crop, the canning of corn will be started, followed by cabbage packing.

The Bower City Canning company at the present time is operating three canning units which include nine threshing machines. All the peas are threshed at the viewer stations before they are brought to the cannery. The organization also owns 45 head of mules and horses and five tractors.

HAVE U. S. LAND GRANTS SIGNED BY JAS. POLK IN 1848

Deads even older than those in the possession of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shantz, 20 South Main street, which were described in last week's Gazette, are owned by Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McArthur of the town of Rock.

Mrs. McArthur on Monday exhibited two deeds signed in 1848 by President James K. Polk. The first owners of the deeds—William G. Vandenberg and Irvin Leavenworth—are not related to the McArthurs, but were the first possessors of the land, and it is believed that the week as a whole had a new attendance record, not weather being the cause of the large number.

Night Guards Worthville

The reason for the great evening attendance at Goose Island beach the first of the week was because platforms and forms had not been completed on Holsumple's side until late in the week, when figures show that those on the other side were.

The figures for evening attendance show that keeping a guard at the beach until dark is a worthwhile project.

The greatest trouble in supervising the beaches, guards say, is to watch those who think they are good swimmers and who attempt to swim across the river. Many times, their strength gives out sooner than they had expected, or they become frightened mid-stream, with disastrous results.

If this practice could be stopped, beaches would be much safer.

Another trouble is the lack of lights at Holsumple beach and many thefts have been reported.

Lake Como, in the town of Geneva, has been closed for fishing from Oct. 1 until June 1. The lake is weedy and muddy and many people consider the fish not at all palatable during the summer. Fishing through the ice has for years been a cherished pastime of the farmers in the vicinity of the lake, and there will be keen disappointment when they wake up to the fact that the privilege has now been denied them.

District Attorney Godfrey, Coroner Mayer and Sheriff Wylie made a thorough personal examination into the drowning of Reid Kemmett, the four-year-old Fontana boy, and pronounced it unquestionably accidental.
